

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A control system for peripheral devices of a high-density server. A USB interface is used to connect several motherboards of a high-density server with a system connection back panel and a system management unit, and to control several peripheral devices. The control system of the invention includes a plurality of motherboard USB ports, a USB interface switching module, a USB extension device and a switch control unit.